INSURGENTS SINK ANOTHER BRITISH SHIP

THURSDAY,

OF Traitor's Flares Guide WARNING BY CHAMBERLAIN

Two French Vessels Sunk Simultaneously

London, June 15.

FOINDET 1881 No. 15545

At the moment when the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was warning General Franco'in the House of Commons that "serious injury to friendly relations was likely if Insurgent bombings of British ships continued," Insurgent planes were raining bombs on the British steamer Lucky in Valencia harbour.

According to a message from the Marseilles agents for Lloyd's, the British steamer was struck and sunk almost immediately. Casualties hing parallel to the Yangtse River, are not mentioned.

Two French steamers are also reported to have been sunk in to-day's raids on Valencia. Insurgent planes scored direct hits on the small Honan. 500-ton French cargo steamer Gaulois, launched has already reached Liuan, 150 miles in 1903 and owned by the Enterprise Cotiere de Transport Maritimes, the vessel rapidly sinking.

A second French vessel, the s.s. Karbear, arrived at Nanking.—Trans-Ocean. was struck by bombs, set afire, and sunk.— United Press.

HEARTBURN

Many people suffer from this distressing condition without realising that it is form of indigestion produced by the decomposition of indigestible food retained in the stomach. An occasional dose of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder in water prevents the retention of indigestible food in the intestines. Apart from the help it affords to the digestive organs, Maclean Brand Stemach Powder has a slight, gentle laxative effect, which helps the nyatem to pass on indigestible food so that cannot ferment and clog up the intestines.

Sufferers from heartburn, and indeed any form of indigestion, can save themselves discomfort and pain by the simple process of taking a spoonful of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder in water after meals or whonever they feel discomfort.
The effect is always beneficial and the relief instantaneous. The reason for this is that Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is unique in combining, in perfectly balanced proportions, a formula which time and experience have proved to be the most effective ever devised for the prompt rectification of stomach trouble. In many cases, much more serious than Heartburn, Maclean Brand Stomach Powder has put an end to pain and suffering, has even saved the sufferer from the operating table. If you suffer from stomach trouble, get a bottle of the original MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder. For your own protection, see the "ALEX C.

DEATH ROLL

SINCE ARAB

(By Stewart Brown) United Press Staff Correspondent

Palestine's death - toll since the outbreak of the Arab revolt just two years ago already has mounted to nearly 1,800, a United Press survey

Arab losses alone included more than 1,500 killed in clashes with British troops or at the hands of Arab terrorists. Nearly 200 Jews were killed and over 500 wounded. Casualties among British troops and police totalled nearly sixty of various ranks killed and the same number

The financial cost of the revolt to the Arabs is estimated at £1,000,000 including damage to houses blown up by British troops as reprisals against terrorism. Jewish financial losses, direct and indirect, are estimated by banks and insurance houses at £2,000,000 during the period. The Palestine Government's financial surplus, which amounted to more than £60,000,000 before April, 1936, has been reduced by one-half in the past two years, partly owing to the stoppage of Jewish

15 JEWS KILLED IN WEEK

An Arab Nationalist leader in Acre told the United Press that about fifteen Jewish settlers had been killed in this area in recent weeks.

"Many more undoubtedly will be killed in the near future in Northern Palestine," he added, "unless the Jews give up the idea of establishing new Jewish settlements along the Palestine-Syrian frontlers."

HISTORY OF TEA

Sir.—I read with much interest Mr. T. Paul Gregory's excellent article on the "Romance of China Tea" in Saturday's issue of your paper.

There are, however, one or two points on which Mr. Gregory is not quite accurate. Although the dishonest practices of Chinese exporters might have been responsible to some extent, the great decline of the China ten industry was primarily due to the expansion of the plantation industry in India and Celyon.

As Mr. Gregory is no doubt aware, tea is not indigenous to China. The home of ten is Assam, India. This is how it was taken to China: In the days when Buddhism held sway in India, missionaries used to travel across the Himalayas into Tibet and the Western and South-Western provinces of China. These long, weary journeys were done mostly on foot. An ascetic monk named Botchiharma, making the journey from Central India, found himself very thirsty and tired in the plains of Assam, in yesterday's issue of your journal So, quite by accident, he picked on the subject of the banning of the some leaves from a nearby bush and March of Time, we are most surbegan chewing them. Later British settlers in India discovered the plant in Assam and began cultivating it. As the industry developed in India so did the imports of China tea in England decline, Although, even to-day, certain brands of Chinese tea are unrivalled, and cannot be bought at any price, most

The World Goes Round On This Invention

URING the next two months the road-using population of the British Isles may be expected to increase at the approximate average rate of sixty thousand weekly.

By the end of June there will be, at a conservative estimate, some half million people who will be tasting the freedom of the roads for the first time. Divided and classifled, they will swell the ranks of cyclists to certainly not less than ten and a half millions and of motorists to over 1,800,000.

Look in both groups for a common denominator and you may be exercised to find one; probably it will be only the tyras they ride. But study that single factor and you will get some interesting results.

It would not seem untrue to say that the invention of the pneumatic tyre, which this year celebrates its jubilee, brought into existence an entirely new form of social organisation. Yet, in fact, the principle of the modern tyre had been evolved, not in 1888, but 43 years earlier. The misfortune of the first inventor, a Scotsman named Thomson, was that he had the right idea at the wrong moment; Dunlop's luck that he introduced it (not knowing of the preinvention) when the world was waiting for it.

The Victorian industrial expansion, with its call for the maximum transport mobility; the growth of interest in country travel, in itself a product of (though at the same time a reaction from) industrialism; and the development of the first of the new road vehicles, the bicycle—these were the conditions, almost more than the man, which produced the modern

NEW METHOD OF HANDWRITING IS BEING TAUGHT LOCAL CHILDREN

ARMY SCHOOLS ADOPT RHYTHMIC PATTERN SYSTEM

Claimed To Be Means Of Banishing All Bad Handwriting

NEW and revolutionary method of teaching children handwriting has come to Hongkong, and is to-day being employed in the military schools here. Known as the Marion Richardson system, it has many outstanding features which experts agree combine to make a person write more legibly, and to learn to write very much more quickly than through the ordinary methods employed in the schools.

It is claimed that so effective is the system, that if properly taught, it will forever banish bad and ill-formed handwriting. Based on natural movement, it is said to be the answer to the harassed employer's prayer for decipherable handwriting.

So interesting are some of the resulta from this system, that the Telegraph publishes together with this explanation, three photographs taken from the Marion Richardson "Teacher's Book", which clearly illustrate the results of the new methods.

The basic idea behind the Marion Richardson system of handwriting is contained in the creation of rhythmic pattern movements. These form the preparation for handwriting just as naturally as prattle is the natural preparation of speech,

FIRST PATTERNS

It is claimed that before a child is ready to take an interest in letters, he should be given the simplest of these patterns and encouraged to practise them, and to invent others by combining and playing with the given movements. But so doing the child will teach himself the rhythmic control, the swiftness and lightness of touch, which are the foundations of good handwriting.

The "Teacher's Book" gives a number of illustrations of the patterns suggested, and then goes on to describe how, from this foundation, the children should be taught to muke capital letters. For example, the V and W are made with one continuous zig-zng movement. The first stroke of the M should be a down-stroke; the rest of the letter is made without lifting the pencil. A is made with two down strokes and one cross-stroke.

It is also explained that U,C,G,O, and Q are all made without lifting the small o, and the distance between the pencil, except for the tail of the Q. lines the space of three small o's. which is an added stroke.

The small letters are all made with an unbroken movement of the pencil, and it is suggested that it will help ink-writing should be introduced the child to make good letters if he and a child's first pen should write rather than to the outline.

gramme was possible. Indeed, there was no play before five o'clock. It was Australia's day-what there was of it. Miss Wynne and Miss Coyne came through to the third round of the Surrey Championship with flying colours and both played extremely well against home opponenta.

These invading girls mastered a damp court in a gloomy light, serving an ace or two nearly every game, and using the whole court for an intensive attack.

Miss Wynne hit clean through Mrs. McKelvie, who won the recent tournament at Brighton. She opened with a love set and closed with a 9game set. Of course, the moist surface placed a premium on Miss Wynne's service and drive, and against a mobile defender like Mrs. McKelvie. But the quality of the Australian game was devastating. Mrs. McKelvie is a left-hander with a deceptive range of shots, but she was wrong-footed too often to give security to any tactical plan. The Melbourne girl could score a service ace almost at will, and I shall be surprised if this weapon does not pierce the defence of greater players than her adversary of yesterday.

In the end, Miss Coyne triumphed, as her deadlier ground shots just merited, but Miss Scott had a point for 4-all in the final set and was only beaten by sheer service pace in the 10th

Matches Decided In Open Pairs

E. W. Lines and R. Duncan, regarded us one of the best pairs in the competition, were given a good game by T. Carr and W. Recently we went to see Thorpe Arnold for ourselves.

It has 28 houses and 166 inhabitants.

Cottages and farmhouses cluster round the ancient church at whose font, believed to be the oldest in the Kingdom, infants were being christened as long ago as the early years of the Twelfth Century.

The ages of the 13 oldest inhabitants total more than 1,000 years. Together they have lived longer than the reputed Methuselah!

PETROL CARGO EXPLODES

Gallant Action Of Police Launch Prevents Spread Of Fierce Fire

With a tremendous roar heard practically all, over the Colony, a junk with a cargo of 400 ting of aviation petrol blewup at the Asiatic Petroleum Company's wharf, North Point. at 10 o'clock last night,

Flames shot 60 feet into the air, and five Chinese who were in the vicinity were injured, one of them badly, Two were taken to hospital,

. A police launch which was first on the scene found the junk tied to a pylon only a few yards from, tho installation wharf connected to the vast main works,

Sub-Inspector Butcher, in charge, courageously nosed his craft close to the furlously blazing junk and released it from its moorings. By this time the junk and the police launch were in the centre of leaping flames and the small hose of the police launch was used to prevent it catching fire.

The quick action of the police probably saved the A.P.C. wherfand possibly the whole installation.

BLAZING INFERNO

Within about 10 minutes of the outburst, the junk had been towed out into the harbour, a blazing inferno from stem to stern.

People on both sides of the harbour could see the yellow glow of the flames from many miles away and for about an hour and a half were provided with a spectacular sight as dark clouds of smoke blackened the night sky.

The junk was towed away from the wharf to burn itself out in the harbour, though thousands of gallons of water were poured, on to the blazing mass by the fire-floats.

For an hour the junk blazed about 200 yards away from the .wharf. Small patches of oil, alight, added to the spectacle,

The junk was moored between two pylons about 25 yards away from the main installation wharf where the main pipe-lines run to the big gasoline tanks in the company's yard.

Several big lighters moored on the other side of the wharf escaped being set on fire when the junk blew up.

A general fire-plarm signal was made as soon as the explosion was heard and company employees, police, five fire appliances, two ambulance units two fire floats and the emergency unit were soon on the Three of the injured men were treated at the Bay View Police station. One was suffering badly from shock and the other two were burnt about the feet and hands,

"POLICE TOOK RISKS"

A man who was early on the scene of the explosion said the Chinese were aboard the junk when it ex-

"The flames licked the main installation wharf and for a time it looked as though the whole pier would be enveloped in flames" he suid. The police launch was encircled by the flames and the men aboard took great risks to cut away the junk from its moorings."

An official of the Asiatic Petroleum Company, who was early on the scene, announced that no damage had been caused to any of the company's property or employees.

Other eye-witnesses of the explosion described it as one of the most spectacular fires they had seen and wondered that no further damage was caused to neighbouring property.

The junk was still blazing at midnight, when it had drifted a mile from the scene of the explosion and was being carried by the tide towards Taikoo about 50 yards from the shore.

ENEMY TO FIGHT CHINESE

THURSDAY,

IAPANESE ADMIT LOSS DELUGE

Vast Army Trying To Divert Menacing Yellow River

Shanghai, June 15.

FOUNDED 1881 No. 15545

The Japanese yesterday gave their first evidence of serious concern at the Yellow River floods, admitting that there had been certain losses of Japanese units overwhelmed by the raging sand-laden waters of the river.

The spokesman stated, however, that the Japanese losses had not been heavy.

Foreseeing the possibility of floods the Japanese army was well equipped with shallow draft boats. Military observers, however, doubt whether such craft can be used to rescue artillery and tanks which have had to be abandoned.

In addition to the Japanese difficulties, Japanese aerial observations indicate that several thousand Chinese troops have been marooned in various engulfed villages south-west of Chengchow, with the waters gradually lapping closer.

Latest reports from the devastated area state that the rains continue, and the flood waters are increasing both in volume and speed. Sufferers from heartburn, and indeed any form of indigestion, can save themselves discomfort and pain by the simple process of taking a spoonful of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder in water after meals or whenever they feel discomfort. The effect is always beneficial and the relief instantaneous. The reason for this is that Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is unique in combining, in perfectly balanced proportions, a formula which time and experience have proved to be the most effective ever devised for the prompt rectification of stomach trouble. In many cases, much more serious than Heartchurn, Maclean Brand Stomach Powder has put an end to pain and suffering, has even saved the sufferer from the operating table. If you suffer from stomach trouble, get a bottle of the original MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder. For your own protection, see the "ALEX. C. MACLEAN " signature on the bottle and carton. ## Warns Traders To Caution In German Trade

Loan Negotiations May Cause Trouble

London, June 15. Referring in the House of Commons this evening to the Austrian Loan negotiations, Mr. Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, said it was impossible at present to make any announcement with regard to the nature of the action likely to be taken by Great Britain. Such action, he said, must clearly depend upon circumstances.

The British Government still hoped that negotiations would reach a successful conclusion, but traders must recognise that there might be difficulties in obtaining payments result in an accumultation of debts in Germany.-Reuter.

TRADE PACT UNSATISFACTORY

London, June 15. Disappointment with the working of the Anglo-Russian Trade Agreement was expressed in the House of Commans to-night by Mr. Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Replying in the debate on Trade, Mr. Stanley said that the letter of the Agreement was being observed but it was being carried out in the proportion of re-exports to exports manufactured in Great Britain, which did not represent the spirit in which Great Britain had believed the Agreement was going to be carried out.

Mr. Stanley disclosed that he was now discussing this most important question with those whose interests were most affeted by the course of trade with Russia,-Renter.

Three Visits

Canton, June 15. The city received three visitations from Japanese air raiders last night and this morning. The first raid this morning was at 1 a.m., subsequent raids being made at 2.30 a.m. and before the moon went down at 5.30

The 2.30 a.m. raid was the heaviest, and a large number of planes came over the city, dropping their bombs on various localities.

It is significant that the raiders carried riding lights which could be seen quite plainly in the city, and their appearance occasioned outbursts of rifle shots from all quarters in the faint hope that a stray shot might find a target. The other two raids were not so intensive and appeared to consist only of three or four planes on each occasion, bombs being dropped intermittently on the outskirts of the city.

School Struck

Canton, June 16. In the course of last night's raids two bombs were dropped in the compound of St. Hilda's School for Girls, which is the property of the Church Missionary Society.

One building was directly hit by a bomb, and was completely demolished, while other buildings attached to the school were seriously damaged.

Fortunately there were no casualties as the school had been evacuated because it was in the danger zone. because it was in the danger zone.

Questions In Commons

London, June 15. Questioned in the House of Commons regarding the effects of the Japanese air attacks in Canton the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs; Mr. R. A. Butler, said the official estimates of the casualtles received up to the present were incomplete,. but reports indicated that between 3,500 and 4,000 persons were killed and wounded between May 28 and

"As the House is aware, His Majesty's Government has protested to the Japanese Government against the indiscriminate bombing of civilian area and thickly populated centres", Mr. Butler said.

Asked in a supplementary question if a reply had been received to the British protest, Mr. Hutler said cer-tain preliminary observation had been made to the British Ambassador in Tokyo by the Japanese foreign minis-ter, who had promised to sond a considered reply.—British Wireless.

CONSTABLE'S APPEAL DISMISSED

At the Supreme Court this morn-ing, an appeal brought by Shantung police constable Shou Hsok-chi, 50, against his conviction by a Police Magistrate for the possession of 96 bottles of dutlable Chinese wine on April 11, was dismissed by the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell. The appellant was convicted by Mr. H. R. Butters on May 17 and fined $300,

The Crown's case was that the appellant approached an Indian police constable, B443, who was on duty in Centre Street, West Point, about 1.05 p.m. on April 11. The appellant was carrying a blanket and a basket, and was followed by a coolle who was carrying two sacks. As he reached the Indian, the appellant spoke to him and asked if he was on duty there. On receiving a reply in the affirmative, it was alleged that the appellant immediately dropped what he was carrying and ran away, followed by the coolie, who had also dumped his burden. The orticles, on being taken to West Point police station, were found to contain the 96 bottles of Chinese wine.

Mr. F. H. Loseby, representing the appellant, this morning said be had been unable to get the second officer of the steamer Kwangtung, on which appellant was serving as a member of the police Anti-Piracy Guard at the time of the alleged offence, as witness, as the man had been transferred to another ship.

In his submissions to the Court, Mr. Loseby contended that there was insufficient evidence before the Magistrate to convict the appellant, and that the evidence of the Indian constable, B443, could not be be-

Still Plan To Probe Bombings

- London, June 15. The plan to form a committee in order to ascertain the extent of damage caused by aerial bombings in Spain has by no means been dropped by the British Government, according to well-informed circles here. It is known, however, that the United States will decline to be represented on such a Committee. The ment of State that the United States not achieve any practical results.

Moreover, the United States is of the opinion the discussion of the London - Paris - Geneva question of preventing aerial bombardments cannot be confined to Spain alone, but must also include China.

The committee will therefore be composed of representatives of Great Britain, Norway and Sweden. Its constitution will probably be announced this week .- Trans-Ocean.

sald to be high at Kalfeng, where the Japanese have closed all city gates and have barricaded holes in the city walls with sandbags in an effort to save the Inner city from sharing the fate of its suburbs.

At most places, however, the flood waters are stated to be only four feet high, so that Japanese casualties due to the floods are not believed to be large.

Japanese artillery and mechanised units, however, have been rendered absolutely useless. Many field pleces, tanks and lorries are lying below the surface of the water.

Closure of the breaks in the dykes is believed to be impossible for several months at least, because nothing can be done until the flood waters raging down the river from the mountains of Tibet become more subbdued.

"Prest-O-Lite" The World Goes Round. On This Invention

URING the next two months the roadusing population of the British Isles may be expected to increase at the approximate average rate of sixty thousand weekly.

By the end of June there will be, at a conservative estimate, some half million people who will be tasting the freedom of the roads for the first time. Divided and classified, they will swell the ranks of cyclists to certainly not less than ten and a half millions and of motorists to over 1,800,000.

Look in both groups for a common denominator and you may be exercised to find one; probably it will be only the tyres they ride. But study that single factor and you will get some interesting results.

It would not seem untrue to say that the invention of the pneumatic tyre, which this year celebrates its jubilee, brought into existence an entirely new form of social organisation. Yet, and Miss E. E. Hadley will take in fact, the principle of the place at St. Andrew's Church, modern tyre had been evolved, Kowloon, on Monday, June 27 at not in 1888, but 48 years earlier. 4 30 pm Invitations are not The misfortune of the first incordially invited to the ceremony ventor, a Scotsman named Thomand to the reception afterwards son, was that he had the right idea at the wrong moment; Dunlop's luck that he introduced it (not knowing of the pre-invention) when the world was waiting for it.

The Victorian industrial expansion, with its call for the maximum transport mobility; the growth of interest in country travel, in itself a product of (though at the same time a reaction from) industrialism; and the development of the first bicycle—these were the conditions, almost more than the man, which produced the modern

Claimed To Be Means Of Banishing All Bad Handwriting

NEW and revolutionary method of teaching children handwriting has come to Hongkong, and is to-day being employed in the military schools here. Known as the Marion Richardson system, it has many outstanding features which experts agree combine to make a person write more legibly, and to learn to write very much more quickly than through the ordinary methods employed in the schools.

It is claimed that so effective is the system, that if properly taught, it will forever banish bad and ill-formed handwriting. Based on natural movement, it is said to be the answer to the harassed employer's prayer for decipherable handwriting.

So interesting are some of the resulta from this system, that the Telegraph publishes together with this explanation, three photographs taken from the Marion Richardson "Teacher's Book", which clearly illustrate the results of the new methods.

The basic idea behind the Marion Richardson system of handwriting is contained in the creation of rhythmic pattern movements. These form the preparation for handwriting just as naturally as prattle is the natural preparation of speech.

FIRST PATTERNS

It is claimed that before a child is ready to take an interest in letters, he should be given the simplest of these patterns and encouraged to practise them, and to invent others by combining and playing with the given movements. But so doing the child will teach himself the rhythmic control, the swiftness and lightness of touch, which are the foundations of good handwriting.

The "Teacher's Book" gives a number of illustrations of the patterns suggested, and then goes on to describe how, from this foundation, the children hould be taught to make capital letters. For example, the V and W are made with one continuous zig-zag movement. The first stroke of the M should be a down-stroke; the rest of the letter is made without lifting the pencil. A is made with two down strokes and one cross-stroke.

It is also explained that U,C,G,O, and Q are all made without lifting the, small o, and the distance between the pencil, except for the tail of the Q, lines the space of three small o's. which is an added stroke.

The small letters are all made with an unbroken movement of the pencil. and it is suggested that it will help link-writing should be introduced. the child to make good letters if he and a child's first pen should write pays attention to the internal shapes nearly as possible as a pencil writes, inther than to the outline. By the time the child is 61/2 years trust between thick and thin strokes.

It should be stiff, square, and if posof age, he should have begun to make use of writing, and he should sible, trench-pointed, that is, having the writing edge slightly turned up be given copies to trace, as this will | rapidly form and establish his hand- so that it will write smoothly and writing, because it so simplifies the process that it frees him to give his whole attention to guiding his pencil. children between 9 and 10, and these . # AUSTRALIAN LADIES HAVE GOOD DAY IN SURREY TOURNAMENT

Miss Wynne And Miss Coyne Both Successful

By A. Wallis Myers

Surbiton yesterday. What with rain and bleak light only a skeleton programme was possible. Indeed, there was no play before five o'clock,

It was Australia's day-what there was of it. Miss Wynne and Miss Coyne came through to the third round of the Surrey Championship with flying colours and both played extremely well against home op-

These invading girls mastered damp court in a gloomy light, serving an ace or two nearly every game, and using the whole court for an intensive attack.

Miss Wynne hit clean through Mr-McKelvie, who won the recent tournument at Brighton She opened with a love set and closed with a 9game net. Of course, the moist surface placed a premium on Miss. Wynne's service and drive, and against a mobile defender like Mrs. McKelvle But the quality of the Australian game was devastating. Mrs. McKelvie is a left-hander with a deceptive range of shots, but she was wrong-footed too often to give security to any tactical plan. The Melbourne girl could score a service ace almost at will, and I shall be surprised if this weapon does not pierce the defence of greater players than her adversary of yesterday

ENTERPRISING PLAY

Miss Coyne's opponent was Miss Valerie Scott and their match, so full of enterprise and speed, provided a rare treat for a gallery that had al- [ Ascot to-day most renounced hope of any play.

Both girls-Miss Coyne is 19 and Miss Scott 20-had to school their temperaments to unenviable conditions. Black clouds shaded the court, there was fleeting rain; the balls were discolour¢d.

Yet the standard of play was always high, and fine drives and volleys, to say nothing of unreturnable services, were plentiful. In the end, Miss Coyne trlumphed, as her deadlier ground shots just merited, but Miss Scott had a point for 4—all in the final set and was only beaten by sheer service pace in the 19th

MENACING ATTACK

Miss Scott, thrusting with greater accuracy and using the drop volley well, won the first set before Miss Coyne came to her best. In the second set, one saw the rich value of the young Australian's rhythmic game--its smoothly struck service, the low, forehand drive which clung to the turf, the well-timed backhand invested with spin, neatly placed volleys. The strokes were coordinated into a menacing attack. Miss Scott deserved every credit for holding Miss Coyne at bay so long. She was led 3-1 and again 4-2 in the final set, each time

LONG LIFE AT THORPE ARNOLD

JOHN MORGAN, searching for Countryside news, finds a village of Methusclahs. Pictures by FREDERIC G. ROPER.

ITHORPE ARNOLD is a hamlet one-and-a-half miles north-east of Melion Mowbray, Leicester-

- Its folk claim the English record for longevity and challenge any other place of equal size in the country to prove them wrong.

Recently we went to see Thorpe Arnold for ourselves.

It has 28 houses and 166 inhabitants.

Cottages and farmhouses cluster round the ancient church at whose font, believed to be the oldest in the Kingdom, infants were being christened as long ago as the early years of the Twelfth Century.

The ages of the 13 oldest inhabitants total more than 1,000 years. Together they have lived longer than the reputed Methuselah!

One is the parish priest, another is his handyman. All have been among the country's most industrious

One keeps a little shop to cke out the slender earn-ings of a crippled husband; another has given 60 years to the care of sheep, and is still shepherding.

One has been the mother of 14, another is a grandmother with a shrewd tongue in a wise head.

There is neither, public-house nor Post Office in the parish; main water and a sewerage system have yet to come.

John Clayton (74) likes his garden. "My bit ends here," he says.

Mrs. Matt Clayton (77). "What does he want to take a picture for?"

Mrs. Woodcock (74) at the door of her cottage, and right, Mr. Woodcock, "married 55 years, this month," likes his

At the moment when the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was warning General Franco in the House of Commons that "serious injury to friendly relations was likely if Insurgent bombings of British ships continued," Insurgent planes were raining bombs on the British steamer Lucky in Valencia harbour.

According to a message from the Marseilles agents for Lloyd's, the British steamer was struck and sunk almost immediately. Casualties are not mentioned.

Two French steamers are also reported to have been sunk in to-day's raids on Valencia. Insurgent planes scored direct hits on the small 500-ton French cargo steamer Gaulois, launched in 1903 and owned by the Enterprise Cotiere de

Transport Maritimes, the vessel rapidly sinking. A second French vessel, the s.s. Karbear, was struck by bombs, set afire, and sunk.—

HISTORY OF TEA

Sir,—I read with much interest In Mr. T. Paul Gregory's excellent article on the "Romance of China Tea" in Saturday's issue of your paper. due to the expansion of the plantation industry in India and Celyon. As Mr. Gregory is no doubt aware, tea is not indigenous to China. The home of tea is Assam, India. This is how it was taken to China: In the days when Buddhism held sway in India, missionaries used to travel across the Himalayas into Tibet and the Western and South-Western provinces of China. These long, weary journeys were done mostly on foot, An ascetic monic named Botchiharma, making the journey from Central India, found himself very thirsty and tired in the plains of Assam. #### Three Visits

Canton, June 15. The city received three visitations from Japanese air raiders last night and this morning. The first raid this morning was at 1 a.m., subsequent raids being made at 2.30 a.m. and before the moon went down at 5.30

The 2.30 a.m. raid was the heaviest, and a large number of planes came over the city, dropping their bombs on various localities.

It is significant that the raiders carried riding lights which could be seen quite plainly in the city, and their appearance occasioned outbursts of rifle shots from all quarters in the faint hope that a stray shot might find a target.

The other two raids were not so intensive and appeared to consist only of three or four planes on each occasion, bombs being dropped intermittently on the outskirts of the city.

School Struck

Canton, June 16. In the course of last night's raids two bombs were dropped in the com-pound of St. Hilda's School for Girls, which is the property of the Church Missionary Society.

One building was directly hit by a bomb, and was completely demolished, while other buildings attached to the school were seriously damaged.

Fortunately there were no casual-ties as the school had been evacuated because it was in the danger zone. Almost all colleges and universities in Canton have now been emptied. Lingnam University, which previously housed 500 students, now contains only sixty.—Reuter.

Questions In Commons

London, June 15. Questioned in the House of Commons regarding the effects of the Japanese air attacks in Canton the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. R. A. Butler, said the official estimates of the casualties received up to the present were incomplete, but reports indicated that between 3,500 and 4,000 persons were killed and wounded between May 28 and

"As the House is aware, His Majesty's Government has protested to the Japanese Government against the indiscriminate bombing of civilian area and thickly populated cen-tres". Mr. Butler said.

Asked in a supplementary question if a reply had been received to the British protest, Mr. Butler said cer-tain preliminary observation had been made to the British Ambasador in Tokyo by the Japanese foreign minis-ter, who had promised to send a considered reply .- British Wireless.

CONSTABLE'S APPEAL DISMISSED

At the Supreme Court this morning, an appeal brought by Shantung police constable Shou Haok-chi, 50, against his conviction by a Police Magistrate for the possession of 96 bottles of dutinble Chinese wine on April 11, was dismissed by the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell. The appellant was con-victed by Mr. H. R. Butters on May 17 and fined $300.

The Crown's case was that the appellant approached an Indian police constable, B443, who was on duty in Centre Street, West Point, about 1.05 p.m. on April 11. The appellant was carrying a blanket and a basket, and was followed by a coolle who was carrying two sacks. As he reached the Indian, the appellant spoke to him and asked if he was on duty there. On receiving a reply in the affirmative, it was alleged that the appellant immediately dropped what he was carrying and ran away, fol-PARTICULARS OF THE LOT. lowed by the coolie, who had also dumped his burden. The articles, on being taken to West Point police station, were found to contain the 86 bottles of Chinese wine.

> Mr. F. H. Loseby, representing the appellant, this morning said he had been unable to get the second officer of the steamer Kwangtung, on which appellant was serving as a member of the police Anti-Piracy Guard at the time of the alleged offence, as a witness, as the man had been transferred to another ship.

In his submissions to the Court, Mr. Loseby contended that there was insufficient evidence before the Magistrate to convict the appellant, and that the evidence of the Indian constable, B443, could not be be-Heved.

In dismissing the appeal, his Lord- Waterproof, ship said in part: I have come to the conclusion that this appeal cannot succeed. # The World Goes Round On This Invention

URING the next two months the roadthe British Isles may be expected to increase at the approximate average rate of sixty thousand weekly.

By the end of June there will be, at a conservative estimate, some half million people who will be tasting the freedom of the roads for the first time. Divided and classified, they will swell the ranks of cyclists to certainly not less than ten and a half millions and of motorists to over 1,800,000.

Look in both groups for a common denominator and you may be exercised to find one; probably it will be only the tyres they ride. But study that single factor and you will get some interesting results.

It would not seem untrue to say that the invention of the pneumatic tyre, which this year celebrates its jubilee, brought into existence an entirely new form of social organisation. Yet, in fact, the principle of the place at St. Andrew's Church, modern tyre had been evolved, not in 1888, but 43 years earlier. The misfortune of the first incordially invited to the ceremony ventor, a Scotsman named Thomand to the reception afterwards son, was that he had the right idea at the wrong moment; Dunlop's luck that he introduced it (not knowing of the preinvention) when the world was waiting for it.

The Victorian industrial expansion, with its call for the maximum transport mobility; the growth of interest in country travel, in itself a product of (though at the same time a reaction from) industrialism; and the development of the first criticism has been levelled of the new road vehicles, the bicycle-these were the conditions, almost more than the

Claimed To Be Means Of Banishing All Bad Handwriting

NEW and revolutionary method of teaching children handwriting has come to Hongkong, and is to-day being employed in the military schools here. Known as the Marion Richardson system, it has many outstanding features which experts agree combine to make a person write more legibly, and to learn to write very much more quickly than through the ordinary methods employed in the schools.

It is claimed that so effective is the system, that if properly taught, it will forever banish bad and ill-formed handwriting. Based on natural movement, it is said to be the answer to the harassed employer's prayer for decipherable handwriting.

So interesting are some of the results from this system, that the Telegraph publishes together with this explanation, three pholographs taken from the Marion Richardson "Teacher's Book", which clearly illustrate the results of the new methods.

FIRST PATTERNS

It is claimed that before a child is rendy to take an interest in letters, he should be given the simplest of these patterns and encouraged to practise them, and to invent others by combining and playing with the given movements But so doing the child will teach himself the rhythmic control, the swiftness and lightness of touch, which are the foundations of good handwriting.

The "Teacher's Book" gives a number of illustrations of the patterns suggested, and then goes on to describe how, from this foundation, the children should be taught to make capital letters. For example, the V and W are made with one continuous zig-zag movement. The first stroke of the M should be a down-stroke; the rest of the letter is made without lifting the pencil. A is made with two down strokes and one cross-stroke.

It is also explained that U,C,G,O, small o, and the distance between the and Q are all made without lifting the lines the space of three small o's. pencil, except for the tail of the Q. which is an added stroke.

The small letters are all made with an unbroken movement of the pencil, and it is suggested that it will help the child to make good letters if he pays attention to the internal shapes rather than to the outline.

By the time the child is 61/2 years of age, he should have begun to It should be stiff, square, and if posmake use of writing, and he should sible, trench-pointed, that is, having be given copies to trace, as this will the writing edge slightly turned up rapidly form and establish his hand- so that it will write smoothly and fantrymen on the Castellon front. writing, because it so simplifies the without pressure. process that it frees him to give his whole attention to gulding his pencil. # AUSTRALIAN LADIES HAVE GOOD DAY IN SURREY TOURNAMENT

Miss Wynne And Miss Coyne Both Successful

By A. Wallis Myers

There was a "sticky wicket" at Surbiton yesterday. What with rain and bleak light only a skeleton programme was possible. Indeed, there was no play before five o'clock. It was Australia's day-what there was of it. Miss Wynne and Miss Coyne came through to the third round of the Surrey Championship with flying colours and both played extremely well against home obponents These invading girls mastered a damp court in a gloomy light, serving an ace or two nearly every game, and using the whole court for an intensive attack Miss Wynne hit clean through Mrs McKelvic, who won the recent tournament at Brighton She opened ! with a love set and closed with a 9game set. Of course, the moist surface placed a premium on Miss, Wynne's service and drive, and against a mobile defender like Mrs McKelvic But the quality of the Australian game was devastating Mrs McKelvie is a left-hander

Mrs McKelvie is a left-hander with a deceptive range of shots, but she was wrong-footed too often to give security to any tactical plan The Melbourne girl could score a service ace almost at will, and I shall be surprised if this weapon does not pierce the defence of greater players than her adversary of yesterday

LONG LIFE AT THORPE ARNOLD

JOHN MORGAN, searching for Countryside news, finds a village of Methuselahs. Pictures by FREDERIC G. ROPER.

THORPE ARNOLD is a hamlet one-and-a-half miles north-east of Melton Mowbray, Leicester-

. Its folk claim the English record for longevity and challenge any other place of equal size in the country to prove them wrong.

Recently we went to see Thorpe Arneld for ourselves.

It has 28 houses and 166 inhabitants.

Cottages and farmhouses cluster round the ancient church at whose font, believed to be the oldest in the Kingdom, infants were being christened as long ago as the early years of the Twelfth Century.

The ages of the 13 oldest inhabitants total more than 1,000 years. Together they have lived longer than the reputed Methuselah!

One is the parish priest, another is his handyman. All have been among the country's most industrious citizens.

One keeps a little shop to eke out the slender carnings of a crippled husband; another has given 60 years to the care of sheep, and is still shepherding. One has been the mother of 14, another is a grandmother with a shrewd tongue in a wise head.

There is neither public-house nor Post Office in the parish; main water and a sewerage system have vet to come.

John Clayton (74) -likes his garden. "My bit ends here," he says.

Mrs. Matt Clayton (77). "What does he want to take a picture for?"
